
there is reality in the field of facts and there is reality in the field of ideas whoever does not walk in the field of ideas will never be able to create something really new